About

Xavier de Pedro Puente (Barcelona, 1972) is graduated in Biology (1995), with a Ph.D. in Ecology (2007) at University of Barcelona. He started teaching at university level in 2000, and since then he has taught in several fields at university related to Health and Environment, Biology, Environmental Sciences, Oceanography and Applied Informatics for collaborative pedagogical scenarios. He holds two postgraduate degrees in Teaching at university level, by University of Barcelona, plus a postgraduate degree in Bioinformatics at Open University of Catalonia (2012). In 2010 he worked as a consultant at the Moodle-partner firm in Spain CV&A, before he entered to work full time in 2011 at Vall d'Hebron Research Institute (VHIR). He has been working as instructor at IES Abroad Barcelona since 2008, where he currently teaches «Sustainability: Challenges and Responses»

For more information, see:

Full Resume

From:
https://webgrec.ub.edu/webpages/personal/cas/000504_xavier.depedro.ub.edu.html[1]

[1] https://webgrec.ub.edu/webpages/personal/cas/000504_xavier.depedro.ub.edu.html